Executive Summary

Brown and Caldwell provided the Town of Braintree with GIS (Geographic Information System) layers of the Town's stormwater outfalls and stormwater outfall catchment areas. All GIS layers were provided in the shapefile file format. This Technical Memorandum (TM) describes the development of the these layers.

Section 1: Overview

From July 2016 through June 2019, Brown and Caldwell performed illicit discharge detection and elimination (IDDE) investigations of the Town's stormwater infrastructure. The investigations consisted of screening and sampling stormwater outfalls during dry weather conditions in order to identify outfalls contaminated by illicit discharges. In cases where an outfall could not be accessed or located, the screening and sampling was performed at the nearest upstream manhole.

Brown and Caldwell recorded the investigation locations using consumer grade cell phones equipped with global position system (GPS) systems. Under open sky, cell phone accuracy is typically within a radius of about 16 feet, but the accuracy degrades in the presence of trees and buildings.

The location data collected during the field investigations was used to update the Town's map of their outfalls. The Town currently stores the map of its stormwater infrastructure in AutoCAD. Brown and Caldwell used the Town's AutoCAD file to create a GIS layer of the stormwater outfalls and then modified the GIS layer based on information collected during the field investigations. New outfalls were added, outfall coordinates were refined and outfalls that are no longer in service were removed. The finalized GIS layer contains 316 stormwater outfalls. Brown and Caldwell also delineated the stormwater catchment areas for each of the stormwater outfalls.

A map showing all of the outfalls and catchment areas is provided in Appendix A. Individual maps of each outfall location are provided in Appendix B. Individual maps of the outfall catchments are is provided in Appendix C.

Section 2: Town's Mapping Data

The Town currently manages its stormwater mapping data in AutoCAD. The Town provided Brown and Caldwell an electronic copy of its stormwater mapping on July 20, 2016. Brown and Caldwell used this mapping data to identify the outfall locations for the IDDE investigations performed through December of 2018. On January 2, 2019, the Town provided Brown and Caldwell with a revised map that included additional outfalls. Brown and Caldwell used the updated map for the IDDE investigations performed during 2019.

Section 3: Development the Stormwater Outfalls GIS Layer

Brown and Caldwell used the Town's AutoCAD file to create a GIS layer of the stormwater outfalls and then modified the GIS layer based on information collected during the field investigations. Brown and Caldwell also developed ID's for the outfalls. These activities are described further in the subsections that follow.

3.1 Refining Outfall Coordinates

Brown and Caldwell developed a GIS layer of the Town's outfalls in ESRI's ArcMap software using the steps listed below:

1. Brown and Caldwell created a GIS layer of the IDDE investigation locations. The locations (i.e., x,y coordinates) were based on GPS data. The GIS layer included an attribute to indicate if the inspection took place at an outfall, manhole, or catch basin.
2. A GIS map was developed in Arcmap that included the following GIS layers: IDDE investigation locations (see Step 1), the Town's AutoCAD stormwater infrastructure (i.e., outfalls, storm drains, manholes, catch basins), and orthoimagery of the Town. The IDDE investigation locations were symbolized to make it clear which inspections took place at outfalls, manholes and catch basins.
3. Brown and Caldwell exported the Town's stormwater outfalls to a GIS layer.
4. Brown and Caldwell reviewed the coordinates of all investigations performed at outfalls against the coordinates for the corresponding outfalls in the GIS layer created from the Town's AutoCAD data. Using these coordinates, along with the orthoimagery shown on the map and photographs taken during the investigations, Brown and Caldwell refined the locations of the outfalls in the GIS layer.

There are a few things worth noting about the update:

- Not all of the IDDE investigations took place at outfalls. If the outfall could not be found or accessed, the investigations took place at the nearest upstream manhole. In these cases, no GPS data was collected at the outfall and the locations of these outfalls were not updated. Instead, the outfall coordinates from the Town's AutoCAD data were used.
- Brown and Caldwell did not inspect some of the outfalls because they are owned by private parties or other public agencies. In these cases, the outfall coordinates from the Town's AutoCAD map were used.
- During the IDDE investigations, Brown and Caldwell identified some outfalls that no longer exist. Brown and Caldwell also identified some "outfalls" in the Town's AutoCAD map that were not technically outfalls (e.g., outlets to detention ponds). These outfalls were removed from the outfall GIS layer.

3.2 Assigning ID's to the Outfalls

After the development of the stormwater outfall GIS layer was completed, Brown and Caldwell assigned unique ID's to each of the outfalls. The ID's consist of an abbreviation for the outfall's watershed followed by a dash and an index (e.g., MQR-001).

Brown and Caldwell delineated the watersheds that were used to name the outfalls. Table 4-1 provides a list of the watershed names and the abbreviations used in the outfall IDs. A map of the watersheds is shown in Figure 4-1.

Section 4: Development of the Outfall Catchments GIS Layer

After the development of stormwater outfall GIS Layer was complete, Brown and Caldwell delineated the catchment area for each of the stormwater outfalls.

The delineation of the outcall catchments was based primarily on the stormwater pipe, catch basin and manhole data contained in the Town's AutoCAD drawing of their stormwater system. Starting at each outfall, the storm drainage system was traced upstream. Surface areas upstream of the catch basins were assumed to be part of the outfall's catchment area.

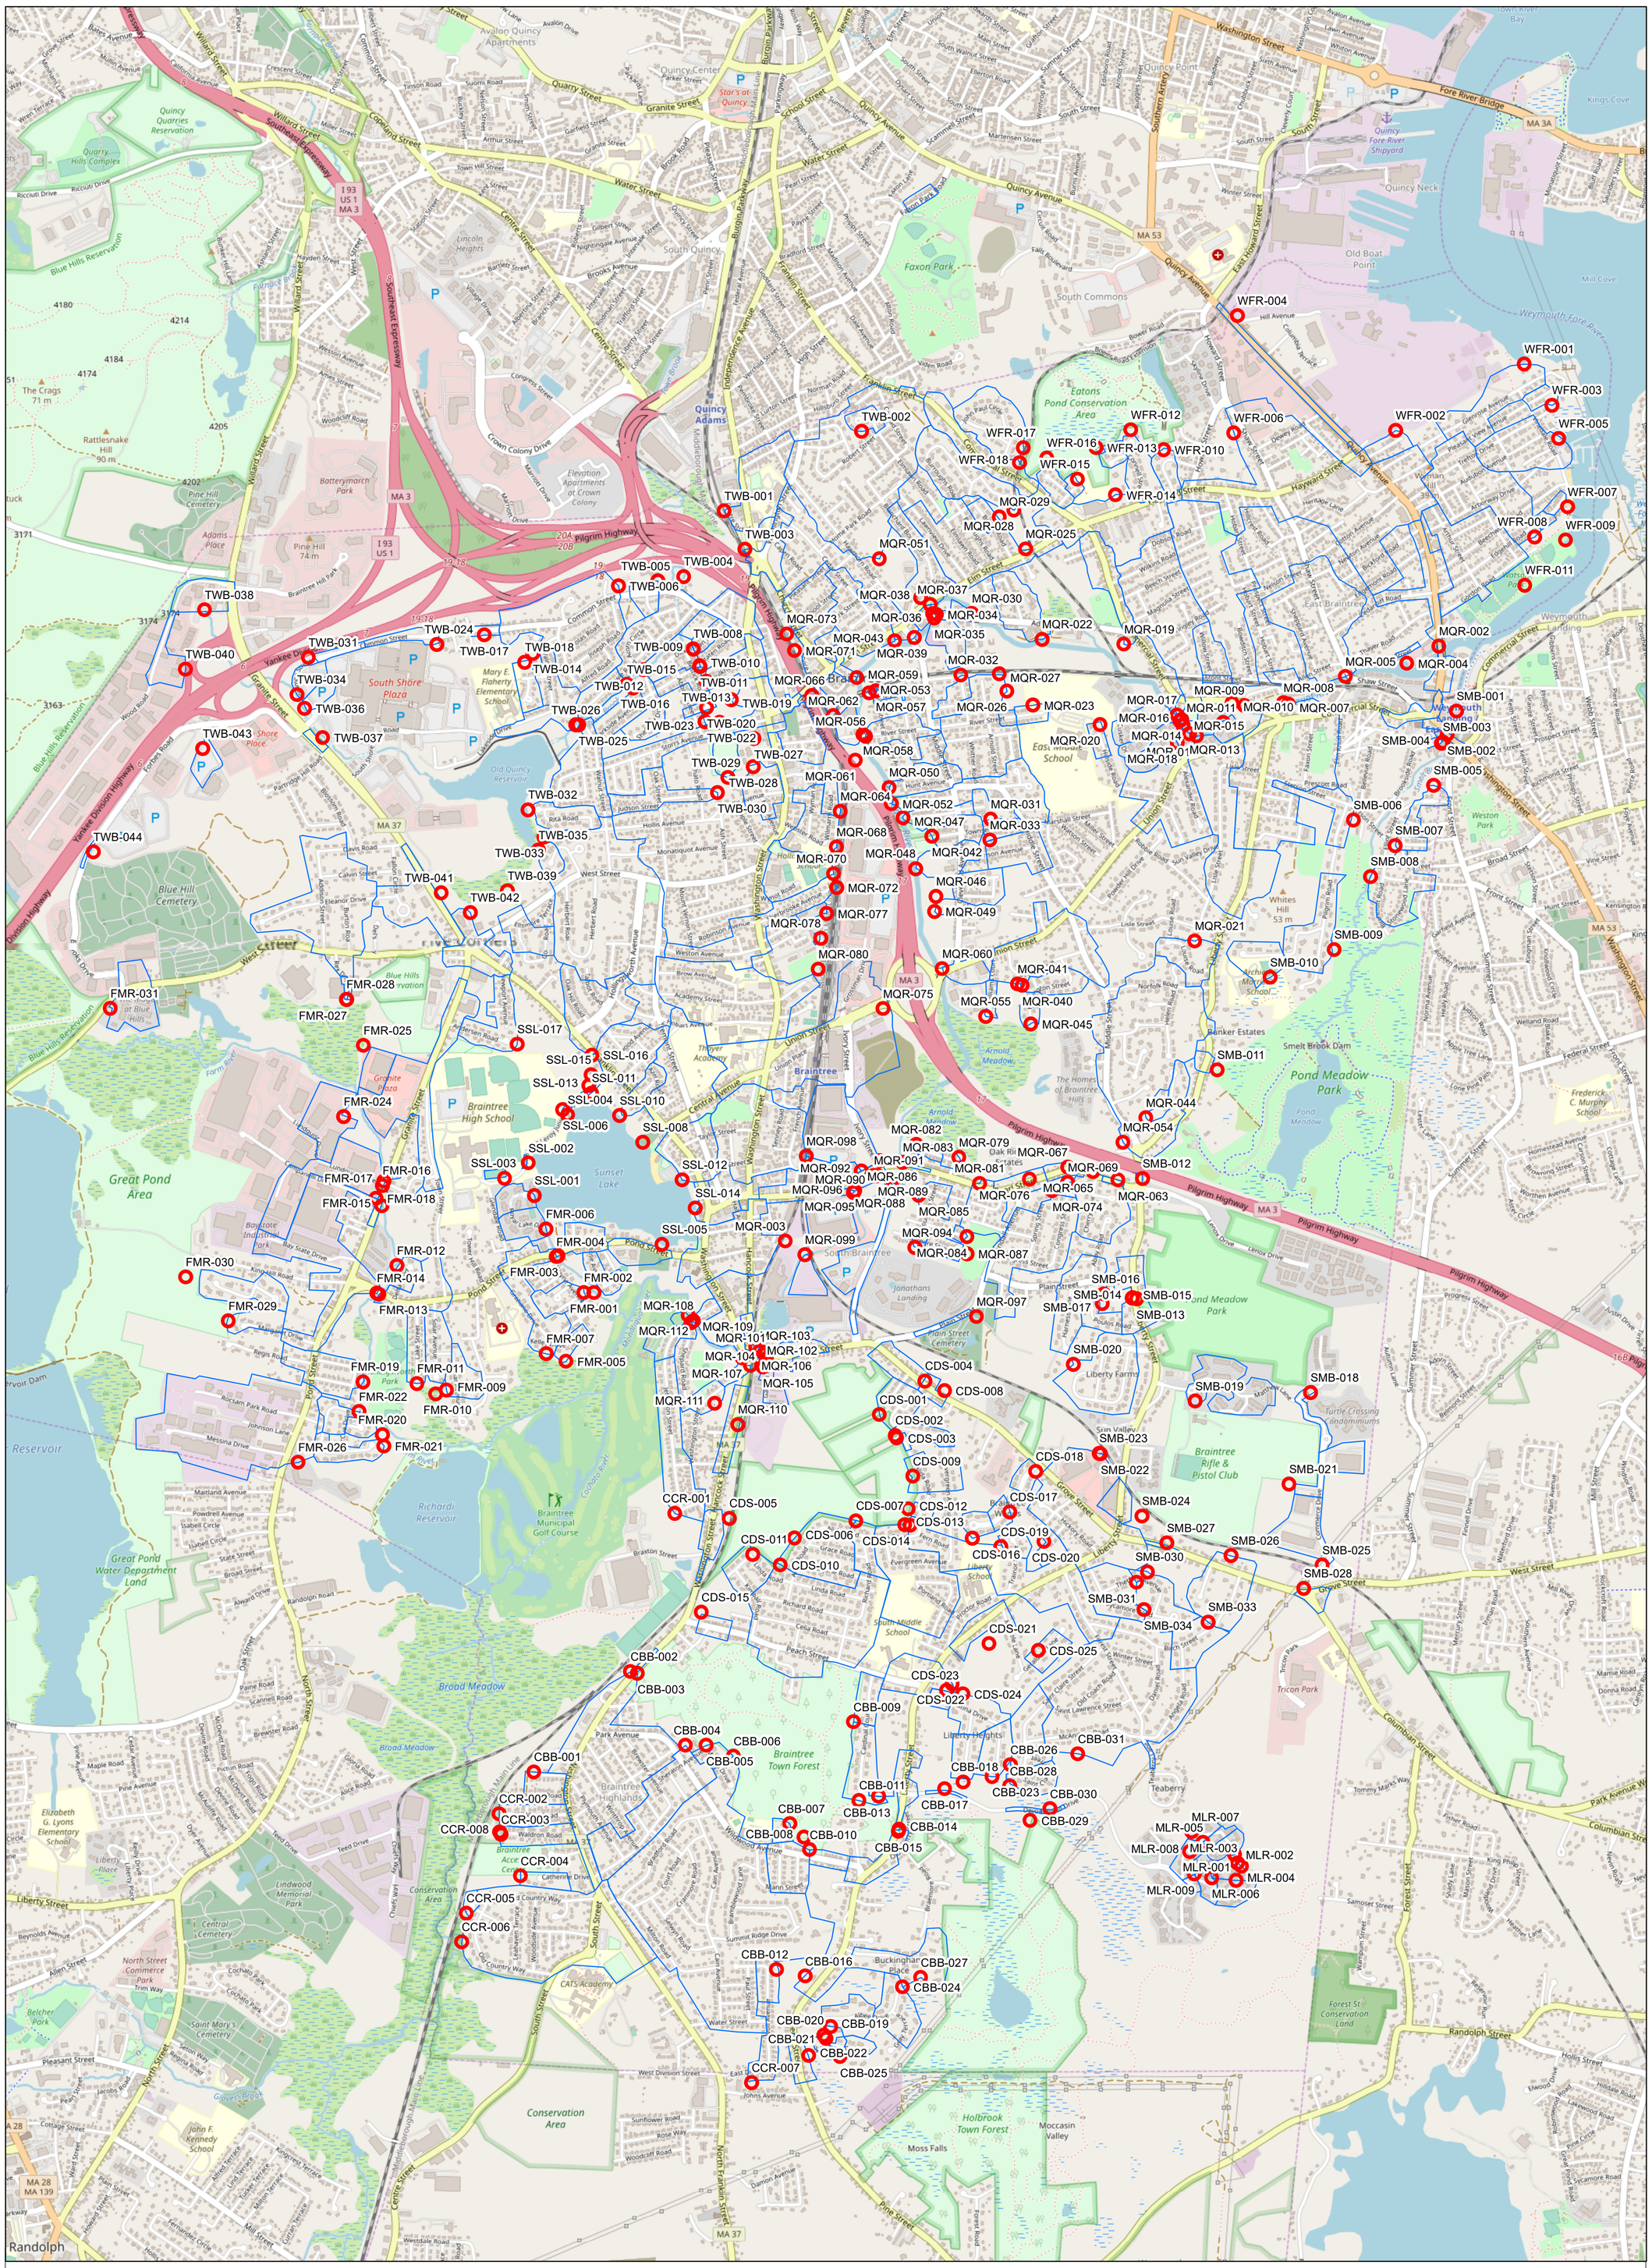

Surface elevation data was used to develop a better understanding of the areas that drain to each catch basin. The source of the elevation data was a 2013-2014 LiDAR digital elevation model provided by MassGIS.

There were some outfalls that were not connected to other stormwater infrastructure (stormwater pipes, manholes or catch basins) in the Town's AutoCAD map. In many of these cases, these outfalls are privately-owned, and the Town does not have mapping data for those private stormwater systems. In other cases, the Town is still refining its stormwater mapping data. When stormwater infrastructure was not available for an outfall, Brown and Caldwell delineated the outfall catchment area based on surface drainage patterns (as determined from the digital elevation model) and an understanding of drainage characteristics of other similar or nearby areas.

The catchments were assigned ID's based on their outfall ID. In order to differentiate between an outfall ID and an outfall catchment area ID, outfall catchments area IDs have a "CA" prefix. For example, the ID of the outfall catchment area for outfall MQR-001 is CA-MQR-001.
